LETTER RECEIVED Dear "Just Thinking": We certainly must "utilize brain power." And we would hope that the community gives us credit for using brain power when the budget is set up for each year for education purposes. (I might add here that a very detailed outline of the budget was presented for the public at the last meeting of the SAD board. Were you there, Just Thinking?) It is impossible to level off funds for education IF we want the very best for our students education does not stand still it is constantly changing and moving forward with new ideas, new books, new systems of presenting materials, new audio-visual aids, new ways of preparing our children for an ever changing world. I could list any number of materials, books, aids, etc., which I alone need for my particular field. And I grant you that every other teacher in the system could come up with a similar list. (And these would be things that we need aside from what we are already using.) As far as the facilities are concerned, perhaps a tour of all the elementary schools in Houlton would help Just Thinking. I would be more than happy to take you along with me in my visit to every school in the SAD 29 area. Certainly the staff of excellent teachers is to be envied but not many of the facilities. Perhaps you could then see that it is not possible to "level off the funds for education" IF we are to progress with the nation and do justice for ourselves, our community and most important our future citizens our children. "Restlessness is discontent, and discontent is the first necessity of progress. Show me a thoroughly satisfied man I will show you a failure." (Thomas A. Edison) We as educators, parents, administrators, taxpayers and citizens must never be content to stand still with brain power or MONEY POWER when it comes to education!

Petitions Place Revaluation And Parking Lot On Ballots

Two petitions, one to place the matter of tax revaluation on the ballot for Town Meeting, and the other to place the proposed purchase of the "Theatre" parking lot on the ballot, were presented to the Town Council Monday night.

Council announced that a public hearing on the two items will be conducted next Wednesday evening, March 5, at 7:30 in the Gentle Memorial Building.

The petition requesting another vote on a tax revaluation program for Houlton is asking that a sum not to exceed $50,000 be borrowed by the Town for this purpose.

The petition proposing the purchase of the "Theatre" parking lot, owned by J. J. Newberry Co., would authorize the Council to borrow $75,000 for the purchase, but specifies that the sale price be negotiated. It also specifies that up to $3,000 a year be taken from surplus to help repay the loan required by the purchase.

Monday was the deadline for filing petitions asking for secret balloting at the March 17 Town Meeting. The law specifies that the petitions be publicly posted for seven days, then a public hearing conducted, with the public hearing to be at least 10 days prior to the Town Meeting date.

The public hearing is a formality, and is for discussion only.

Council OK's Start On Plans To Re-Do Community Park

Town Council Monday night agreed to place an item in the annual warrant requesting an appropriation of $5,000 to get work started on the redevelopment of Community Park.

The action came after Recreation Director William MacManus had outlined briefly some of the plans for the Park. He said that a plan had been prepared by Francis Montville of the University of Maine that would call for substantial changes.

Included, he said, would be the removal of the race track that now encircles most of the Park, removal of the horse stable, construction of basketball courts and tennis courts, construction of a wading pool for youngsters, development of an ice skating rink, and relocation of some of the athletic fields.

Mr. MacManus said the Advisory Board to the Parks and Recreation Department had been advised that much of the proposed work at Community Park is eligible for 50 per cent matching Federal funds. The work, he said, can be spread over a five-year period, if felt desirable, to keep costs in any one year low.

The Advisory Board, Mr. MacManus said, favors the proposed plan, and favored the inclusion of funds in the current municipal budget to enable the program to be started this coming year.

Council was told that much of the early work that was needed at the park included grading and filling, before any actual construction took place.

Council was advised that if Town crews performed this work, the cost would be accepted as "in-kind" credit, and would thus represent the Town's share of the matching funds.

Dates Set For SAD 29 Towns For Pre-School Registration

March 5 and 6 are the dates set aside for pre-registering the children who will enter the kindergartens of the public schools of SAD 29, Houlton, Hammond, Littleton and Monticello, this coming fall. These children must be five years of age by October 15, 1969.

Mrs. Genevieve P. Carpenter, elementary supervisor, announces registering procedures and pre-registration forms are now being sent to the parents of these children. If any parent having a child eligible for the kindergarten class next fall has not received such forms on or before March 3, the parent is asked to pick them up at the school nearest his home. It is very important that these papers be brought to the registration sessions. The child's birth certificate must be presented at that time also.

Parents in Littleton will bring their registration forms to the Littleton School, March 6 between 8 and 11 a.m.

Parents in Monticello will bring their registration forms to the Wellington School, March 6 between the hours of 12:30 and 3 p.m.

There will be no kindergarten classes held in these two communities on March 6.

Pre-registration will be held in Houlton, March 5 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. All parents will return their registration forms to the auditorium of the Lambert School on School Street. Regular kindergarten classes will not be held on that day.

Mrs. Barbara Rogers, school nurse, and Mrs. Carpenter will be present at all of the registration sessions.

Lloyd Chase, Director of SAD 29's Summer Headstart Program, announces that a representative from Headstart will be present to register all eligible children.

Marijuana - - - It Has Reached Houlton Teenagers

By Virginia Hiltz

"I won't say that we are receiving hard shell information at this time, but the problem of marijuana, we have reason to believe, has reached our teenage children in Houlton," so stated Detective Robert Chapman of the Houlton Police Department in an interview last week.

The Pioneer Times is attempting to bring this abuse of drugs problem into the open and is endeavoring to educate, to a certain extent, the townspeople on the situation. Last week we printed an interview with a drug user and stated his side of the case. This week we will bring to the fore the thoughts of the law enforcement officials and then perhaps next week remarks of the judiciary.

Following is the interview with Detective Chapman.

QUESTION: You stated a minute ago that you believed that marijuana was in use in Houlton. Can you give me an idea of the type of people using it?

CHAPMAN: I would say that there is a teenage group involved, there is a college community, a young adult group and of course there are cases of returning servicemen involved.

QUESTION: Do you think that the problem is increasing a great deal?

CHAPMAN: I would say so and the general feeling of the law enforcement agencies is that, if the use of marijuana becomes as widespread as the use of alcohol, the problems will be a thousand fold. The misuse of drugs is extremely difficult to detect and apprehend, to say nothing of the legal technicalities.

QUESTION: How do you

generally find a user?

CHAPMAN: Through investigative procedures mostly. Information from the townspeople and neighbors is of the greatest help and certainly is appreciated.

QUESTION: Do you think there are any "pushers" in town?

CHAPMAN: I don't believe that there are any pushers in the area on the syndicate level. The users in most cases sell to friends and acquaintances, sometimes to finance their own habits.

QUESTION: Where do they get it?

CHAPMAN: Mostly from metropolitan areas, Boston, New York, New Jersey, etc., even as close as Portland.

QUESTION: Just what is marijuana and what does it do?

CHAPMAN: Marijuana is a weed and a member of the hemp family. It grows wild in warm climates. The crushed leaves and buds of the plant look like ordinary oregano in color and substance. After it is crushed, it is rolled in cigarette paper or smoked in a pipe. No two given samples of marijuana will be of the same strength or potency. The street grade that users buy varies tremendously and there is no way to tell by looking at it to judge the strength. A high grade marijuana is called hashish and this could be compared, as an example, to the distilling of wine to make brandy, or in other words, hashish is a refined marijuana.

CHAPMAN: It is not generally known but marijuana or hashish contains an active ingredient known as THC, and if a great amount is smoked, hallucinations can result. If a user hallucinates on a high potency marijuana, it has been stated that they can "see" sounds and "hear" smells.

QUESTION: Is marijuana habit forming?

CHAPMAN: This is an argument of the users but it is only a half truth. Marijuana is not physically addictive but it can produce a psychological dependence or a mental craving for it. It can also lead to other drugs for more "kicks."

QUESTION: Would you consider a user dangerous?

CHAPMAN: The key as to why the marijuana user is dangerous is probably because he has all the mental symptoms of alcohol intoxication without the physical symptoms. For example, the marijuana user operating an automobile loses all sense of time, distance and speed. In a car traveling at 90 mph he might have the impression that he is traveling 30 mph, or maybe he sees a car 20 feet from him and thinks that it is over 200 feet away.

Or, since he loses all sense of time, he might experience an every day occurrence and think that it has taken 30 minutes, when one minute might have elapsed.

QUESTION: Can you tell if someone has been smoking marijuana just by looking at them?

CHAPMAN: This is not too easy to do. They could have all the symptoms of alcohol intoxication except for the loss of coordination which exists with alcohol. They seem to run all of the phases as with alcohol, sometimes gay, sometimes morose, but just by outward appearance it's difficult to tell. You can't smell it on a person's breath but it does have a distinctive odor in a room where it has been used.

QUESTION: Did you read the interview in last week's Pioneer with a user of marijuana and if so do you have any remarks to make about it?

CHAPMAN: Yes, I did and I think that it was a straight forward article and probably answers questions of why people are experimenting with drugs. Of course I don't agree with them and they use such illogical arguments. These people are looking for new experiences but of course if they get into LSD for one experience they might ruin the remainder of their lives. With LSD you can have a return of experiences without taking the drug again and who would want that? I think the use of LSD is declining because the users or experimenters have found that it might cause gene or chromosome damage.

CHAPMAN: I don't think the potential dangers and harmful effects of the abuse and misuse of drugs are worth the arguments in favor of them. We will continue enforcement as thoroughly as we are able and we expect that enforcement efforts on the state and federal level will increase and then there is no doubt that there will be revisions of the present laws to make them easier to enforce.

END OF INTERVIEW

Next week we plan to present the thoughts of the judiciary on the present subject, and then we will have run the full spectrum, the user, the police officer and the courts. The rest is up to the people.

STATISTIC: The Maine State Police and the Attorney General's office report that complaints registered regarding drug abuse in Maine increased 220 per cent during the first 10 months of 1968.

PLAZA PHARMACY

Every year one-half million people begin to wear contact lenses. Personal appearance seems to be the main reason for wearing them. Better vision, freedom in sports and freedom from eyeglasses are other reasons. Today's lenses cover the cornea, floating on a natural tear layer, and are only about the size of an aspirin. Nearsighted, farsighted, and people with an astigmatism can all wear lenses successfully. New materials and fitting techniques are making the number of wearers larger each year. If you wear glasses, why not join the contact lens users?

YORK'S Main St. Houlton

FIRST ANNIVERSARY - Employees of Dana's Food Shop lined up outside of the Market Square restaurant and braved the cold weather and light snow yesterday morning for this photo to mark Dana's first anniversary under new ownership. The restaurant was purchased a year ago by Ralph Cleale, who came to Houlton after a career as an industrial engineer in New Hampshire. Mr. Cleale, who has done some remodeling in the restaurant during the year, and has more planned for the months ahead, said that he is happy with his move to Houlton. From engineer to restaurant owner is quite a change, but Mr. Cleale says he has no regrets whatsoever. With him in the photo, not in order are Maxine Morris, Stanley Young, Joyce Carter, Beanie Sawyer, Pauline Campbell, Pearl Sennett, Bea Bates, Marie MacDonald, Leta Brown, John Sennett, Molly Brown, Rowena Dickinson, Frances Kirlin, Pat Malone, Judy Foster, Beverly Reece and Debbie Tomah. Not in the photo were Mary Brown of Hodgdon and Bill Riley.

In announcing his candidacy for the Town Council, Mr. Daniels issued the following statement:

"I have become a candidate for the Town Council because I feel a sense of responsibility to our town. As a life-long resident and businessman I am deeply disturbed over the lack of coordination and progress in our local government in recent years. As fellow citizens of Houlton we all share the common purpose of making our community the best possible in which to live and raise our children.

"While I may share some conclusions with others I am entering this race as an individual citizen and I pledge that I will apply my own personal judgment on each issue that confronts us now and in the future. In order to serve the best interests of all the citizens I believe I must keep an open mind and listen to all the arguments before forming a conclusion.

"I do believe that we must take steps to dynamically seek out and attract new business to our town. In so doing we should provide the best town services and facilities we can afford. We must assure that our citizens have both availability of employment and equality of taxation.

"The communities to our north have taken the initiative away from us due to our internal conflict. I cannot believe that we have to stand second to any community. I feel that some hard work, combining our efforts into positive directions will enable us to take back the leadership that once was Houlton."

Cold Third Quarter Drops Shires In Tourney Opener

A disastrous third period, in which the Houlton Shiretowners failed to score a field goal, was more than enough for the big and well balanced Lawrence High team as the Bulldogs from Fairfield scored a 72-49 victory over the Shires Thursday night in the opening round of the Eastern Maine double L basketball tournament at the Bangor Auditorium.

The Shires, who had entered the post-season classic in sixth place, with an 11-5 record, were the underdog against Lawrence, but matched them point for point during a good first half. At intermission the score was knotted at 27-27, and the game was very much up for grabs.

Highlights In Sports by Larry Reece

In 1953 or there about, I first came to the Pioneer Times and started to write local sports, which included my own weekly column. For three years in the mid 60's I was in Millinocket, but came back to the Shiretown in 1966. Now readers, this writer is leaving his hometown of Houlton once again. I've started to work in Skowhegan this week as the manager of the Skowhegan Bowladrome.

Bowling has always been a big part of my life, even as a youngster. I enjoyed the sport, so going to Skowhegan to take part in their bowling leagues as well as try to build it bigger, is right down my alley, so to speak.

During the many sports seasons in the Shiretown, it has been a great pleasure for me to obtain the results and meet some of the sports minded citizens of this community. The youngsters in Houlton are very fortunate in having these citizens, who help and promote these programs.

In closing we want to say thanks to our readers, for the many letters and favorable comments. We will certainly miss writing our weekly column, Highlights In Sports.

basket, that by Socoby in the fourth period, was scored by Houlton's starting team during the second half.

The eight points by Janson in the fourth period tied him with Socoby for second high scoring honors for Houlton.

Big Brian Bradstreet topped all scorers with 18 points, while the two fine guards for Lawrence, Lloyd Buck and Ed Marshall had 12 and 13 points respectively.

This marked the fifth straight year that Coach Spurling has taken his Shiretowners to the Eastern Maine tournament, and this had to be the most disappointing performance for one of his teams. The Shires had lost five times during the season, but only in the final game against Caribou did they get beaten in a game in which they played well.

They had played badly early in the year when they lost to Presque Isle, Caribou and Fort Fairfield in their first three games of the season, and played badly in losing to Stearns at Millinocket. Caribou had been the only team to beat them when they were playing well.

It marked only the fourth appearance for Lawrence in the tournament and their victory was only their second tourney win. The other was also against Houlton. They were 15-3 on the regular season.

Lawrence, led by Brian Bradstreet and the two guards, went on to defeat Cony of Augusta in the semi-final round, and then lost in the final seconds to Caribou, 66-65, in the finals Saturday night.

Elks Ladies Score 13 Points To Take Lead In Dunn Trophy

The Elks ladies bowling teams scored 13 out of a possible 16 points Sunday to take the lead after the first two rounds in the Dunn Trophy matches.

The Elks had been tied with the Rebekahs at 11 points each after the first month's action, but their success Sunday gave them a four-point margin over the Rebekahs, 24-20. The Dux Club ladies again came up with only two points Sunday, bringing their total for the two months to four.

First teams for the three clubs bowled their matches at the Dux Club, while second team members were in action at the Elks Club.

Helen Mersereau of the Dux had high single with 124 and high three with 331 to lead the day's action. The top high six total, covering both the first and second month, is shared by Margaret Ingraham of the Elks and Dot McCain of the Dux, with 619, and this also gave the two ladies the high average for the two months with a healthy 103.1.

The final month's roll-off will be held March 23, with the first teams to bowl at the IOOF lanes, and the second teams to bowl at the Dux Club.

Elks Nip Keag In Overtime, 72-64; Win Eastern Maine Class S Crown

A finely precisioned and well balanced Island Falls High School basketball team captured the Eastern Maine Class S championship Saturday afternoon as they edged top-seeded Mattawamkeag High, 72-64, in an overtime thriller at the Bangor Auditorium.

The win puts the second-seeded Elks of Coach Phil Faulkner into the State final against Strong High School in a game that will be played Saturday, March 8, also at the Bangor Auditorium. The game is scheduled for 2 p.m.

The Elks, who appeared on their way to an easy win over Keag after taking a 30-18 lead at the half, and then building this to a 16-point margin early in the third period, had to really scramble in the final moments of regulation time to earn the victory.

Keag, after a bad second period, got their game going mid-way through the third stanza. They trailed by only a single point, 44-43, when the period ended. They went into the lead, 60-59, in the waning moments of the fourth period. Two free throws by a calm Warren Walker knotted the score and then put Island Falls in front by a single point, 61-60. Another free throw by Walker, with only about 30 seconds remaining, gave the Elks a 62-60 lead.

Walker missed his second foul shot but a scramble resulted in the rebounding and a jump ball was called. Island Falls controlled the tap and tried to stall the remaining few seconds away. A steal by Bart Wyman resulted in a basket for Keag and the score was knotted.

On the out-of-bounds play that followed Barry MacArthur took too many steps and was called for traveling, and Keag was awarded the ball with 15 seconds remaining.

Their ace guard, Dennis Libbey, took the last shot for Keag but it was wide of the mark, and when Island Falls gained possession they called time with but one second left. Walker tried a desperation shot from center court that missed and the exciting game went into overtime.

The Elks got a quick basket from Bob Porter and a foul shot from Denis Paradis and took complete control of the extra three-minute period. What chances Keag had were severely damaged when they lost three players by fouls.

Allan Pine had fouled out for Keag with 6:22 left in regulation time and during the overtime they also lost Frank Welch, Hal Smith and finally Dick Vicaire.

Six of the 10 points scored by Island Falls in the overtime were from the foul line. The Elks had a total of 28 free throws in the contest, and their accuracy from the foul line was the margin of victory. They were actually outscored, 26-22, in field goals.

It was a most interesting game, one in which at several times it appeared that Island Falls was going to win comfortably. But Keag staged a series of rallies in the second half, refusing to give up, and displayed the ability and poise that had carried them to 17 victories against a lone defeat. They had defeated Island Falls twice during the regular season, although but by a single point at Island Falls.

As the game progressed a pattern developed whereby the teams were scoring points in bunches. This would first send Island Falls into a sizable lead, only to have Keag fight back and close the gap.

Monson Beaten In Semi-Final Game With Elks

Island Falls took a 20-2 first period lead and then coasted to an easy 79-51 decision over Monson Academy in the semi-final round of the Eastern Maine Class S basketball tournament Friday afternoon at the Bangor Auditorium.

The Elks of Coach Phil Faulkner were never in trouble and put the game out of reach early. They scored the first 10 points of the contest, gave up a field goal to Monson, and then came back with 10 straight points again for the 20-2 period lead.

Only in the third period did the third-seeded Slayers from Monson offer any kind of a challenge. They ran off 10 straight points of their own to close the gap to 13-points, 39-26, but this was as close as they could come.

The Elks went back to work in the final minutes of the third period and closed it out with a 25-point bulge, 54-29. After seeing all eight of the Class S teams in action the previous Saturday, it was obvious that Island Falls, as No. 2, and Mattawamkeag, as No. 1, were far and away the class of the tourney.

Monson was the third ranked team, with a 12-6 season record, but had not been overly impressive in defeating Oakfield in their opening game. Against Island Falls they were in over their heads.

The Elks had the polish and experience, the ball handling, shooting and rebounding. Monson retaliated with a lot of hustle and 6'6" Bud Leavitt, but this was not nearly enough.

Leavitt did score 26 points to be high man in the game, but many of these came from well out. He was unable to penetrate the strong Island Falls defense, and could not match Ron Porter, Barry MacArthur and Warren Walker on the boards.

The Elks got a well balanced scoring output, with MacArthur's 21 points being high. He turned in one of his best performances of the season. Ron Porter had 18 points while Bob Porter and Denis Paradis each had 14. Walker the other starter, had eight but as usual was the floor general for the Elks attack.

Despite the size of the score, Coach Faulkner did not go to his bench until the final minutes of the contest. The first substitution was made necessary when Larry Dwyer replaced Walker who was fouled out with 3:51 to play.

The Elks had had a week's lay-off since their opening round game the previous Saturday, and Coach Faulkner wanted his starting five to get a good workout. He also wanted to make absolutely certain that his team went into the final round.

ISLAND FALLS (79) — MacArthur 21 (5), Ron Porter 18 (4), Walker 14 (4), Dwyer 10 (1), Smith 13 (3), Edwards, Palmer, Steve Porter.

MONSON (51) — Anderson 4 (2), Crockett, Leavitt 9 (8), Bray 5 (3), Erickson, Nelson 1, Sawyer, Kelley, Ranta, Vainio.

AN APPEAL

For materials which represent the cultural heritage of the State

TO THE PEOPLE OF MAINE

Contact the Maine State Museum Commission, State House, Augusta, Me. 04330.

TO PRESERVE THE HERITAGE Of their state

Materials which represent the cultural heritage of the State of Maine are disappearing. They have been lost, allowed to deteriorate, or have been taken from the state to other parts of the country. Each year, there is an increasing scarcity of the objects and artifacts which allow us to maintain a link with the important past.

Three dimensional objects of an historical nature tell a story that books, however well written, cannot. For this reason, the preservation of such objects should become the concern of all persons in Maine who wish to understand the development of their state. The Maine State Museum, therefore, is asking all interested citizens to aid us in saving Maine's past.

OUR PURPOSE

The Maine State Museum was created for the purpose of collecting, preserving and displaying historical artifacts, and interpreting the history of Maine. In 1970, a new State Museum building will open in Augusta. It will be the first public facility devoted to preserving the heritage of the ENTIRE State of Maine.

Because it is a new institution, the collections of the State Museum are at present quite limited. We are confident, however, that historical materials still exist in Maine, and that with the public's support they can yet be salvaged for the purpose of building a museum in which the entire state can take pride.

WHAT CITIZENS CAN DO

Do you have or know of materials which would contribute to telling the story of Maine? People wishing to help can do so by donating objects or collections to the State Museum in Augusta, by donating funds which can be used to obtain materials otherwise unavailable, or by informing the State Museum staff of the whereabouts of things which may be obtained for exhibits.

or contact the museum by phone 623-4511 - Ext 597.

Dana Cheney, Gordon Benn, Harold Graham, Lawrence Horton and Gerald Holmes left Houlton Thursday for a trip by snowmobile to St. Georges, P. Q. They left Houlton and traveled to St. Croix Lake, across the Aroostook road by Amaconk Lake, across country to Cut Lake and then through to Matagamon Lake where they ate lunch at Foster's Wilderness Camps.

From there they went to Chamberlain Lake where they spent the night at Nugent's Sporting Camps. Friday they went the length of Chamberlain to Alagash Lake then by Poland Pond, due west by St. Francis Lake, and out by Baker Lake to Ste. Aurlie where they cleared customs.

At this point they were met by the president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Gaspard Gagne and Paul Bolduc. These men led them into St. Georges, Quebec. They were taken to Bellevue Hotel where they were met by a large group of snowsledding enthusiasts, and were given a tour of the city.

They traveled by snowsledding 12 miles out of St. Georges to the St. Georges' Casting Club where they were received by Mayor Ferencik Cote. This club has 635 snowsledding members and the club was built on an artificial lake. In the evening the group were entertained at a show and later at a Chinese smorgasbord at one of the club member's home. They returned home Sunday after traveling a total of 258 miles one way.

Recognition Of Black Culture

Some of the nation's largest, and supposedly most prestigious colleges and universities, are beset these days with racial unrest. This unrest has ranged from peaceful demonstrations to outright brutality and wanton destruction.

Perhaps the reasons behind this student unrest are varied, but most will center upon the fact that the Negro students feel they are not getting a fair shake, that their Afro-American culture is being slighted if not ignored, and that in general the colleges and universities are catering to the white majorities.

In this light, it is refreshing to see what is being done here at Ricker College. The current Black Culture Symposium that is now in its third week, is an honest and voluntary attempt by the College to recognize the Negro students, but more important to recognize that the Negro does indeed have an important historical background, a culture, and that the Negro has played a vital role in the development of this country, and the world.

Perhaps the fact that the Symposium is voluntary on the part of the college is its most important aspect. It was not introduced to meet demands of the 34 Black students on the campus. It was introduced by the faculty and administration to recognize these students and all Afro-American students.

Thus the program places Ricker squarely ahead of its time. Here is a small liberal arts college way up in the Northeastern-most part of the nation that is voluntarily meeting the needs of its Negro students. Had some of the larger and more prestigious schools had the same vision and the same cooperative spirit among administration and faculty, their student unrest might never have happened.

This first Black Culture Symposium at Ricker is scheduled for nine weeks, and may be extended to 10. It is being offered as a non-credit course, but the College is hopeful that it may become fully accredited in another year.

Coordinator for the Symposium is Dr. Abdulmunim Shakir, and leading the sessions are various members of the faculty, each of whom is taking up a different aspect of the Black People's life and history.

Tonight, for example, Gary Smith will lead a discussion on "The political integration of the Black People in the United States from its inception to the present." The two-hour session in the Commons coffee shop begins at 7:30 and is open to the public.

Russia's Knocks

It may sometimes seem to Americans that only their ships are attacked or hauled into harbors by wrathful foreigners. There is the famous Pueblo. There are the American yachts just seized by Communist China. There are the fishing smacks bombed by Peru.

But Americans need not fancy that they alone are the targets of the touchy. For the Associated Press reminds us that 52 Soviet fishermen and their two trawlers have now been held captive by Ghana for more than four months. The Russians said that the boats drifted into Ghanaian waters during breakdown repairs. Accra claims, however, that the craft were either spying or running arms to former President Nkrumah's followers.

While we do not rejoice in Russia's discomfort, there is a certain satisfaction in knowing that America is not the only great power whose rights are being flaunted and whose dignity is being twitted by the weaker. Experts long predicted that, as the Soviet Union moved more and more into the outside world, it would be increasingly subjected to the harassments which befall the rest of us. Moscow, to its chagrin and helplessness, is learning the truth of these warnings. Maybe these common experiences will hasten the day of greater understanding between Russia and America.

The Siege Of Leningrad

By Helen K. Atchison, Librarian
Cary Free Public Library

Harrison E. Salisbury, presently assistant Managing Editor of the New York Times, probably knows Russia better than any living American correspondent. His various assignments in Russia, beginning in 1944, have lasted for as long as five years at a time. A series of his observations, "Russia Revisited", brought him the 1955 Pulitzer Prize and led to the banning of Salisbury's presence in Russia for five years.

"The 900 Days", Mr. Salisbury's new book, is the story of the great siege of Leningrad from late October 1941 through mid-April 1942 and led to the deaths of well over a million people, most of whom were civilians.

The city's heroic ordeal has remained untold for several reasons, most of which are concerned with propaganda. Since the best sources for the Leningrad story were the men and women who lived through the siege, Salisbury began collecting accounts from these people a few days after the blockade was finally lifted in January 1944. After Stalin's death, memoirs and literary treatments of the "900 Days" were permitted publication and Salisbury's fluency in the Russian language enabled him to use these many sources.

Leningrad was the most Europeanized city in Russia, a gracious, cultured metropolis, and Stalin feared and hated it. The political leaders of the city were unpopular in the Kremlin and through their own unbelievable blunders and Stalin's belief that Hitler would never attack, Leningrad was left without sufficient protection while the Germans set up a blockade that lasted nearly three years.

Historians wonder today why the Germans did not cross the Neva, the river that separated them from Leningrad proper, and annihilate the starving, frozen population that was decreasing daily. Possibly the living death of these Russians was a source of satisfaction to Hitler.

And living death it was. There was no heat, no light, no food, no water no transportation, and the temperature through the long winters was often below zero, even 20 to 30 degrees below. The front was still active and within range.

The dead littered the streets and the hallways in apartments wherever they happened to fall or were laid on the frozen river. Children were abducted for cannibalism, and murder for the sake of a ration card or firewood was commonplace.

The human story of the siege is all here — its heroism and sacrifice, its horror and depravity, its bullheaded obstinacy and tender touches — most of it told to Salisbury by survivors.

Secret Way To End Strikes

Should a union member on strike have the right to vote in a secret election to end the strike and return to work?

The question is becoming increasingly significant not only because there are more strikes sweeping across the country but because their duration is steadily increasing.

Quite obviously there is a point at which a worker, even if a union wins all its demands in a protracted strike, loses more than he gains.

Sen. Paul Fannin, Rep. - Arizona, has just introduced legislation which would afford workers to decide by secret ballot that a strike has gone on too long and that they wish to return to work. The union representing these workers would be bound to call off the strike.

Idea Is Not New

The idea for such a secret strike vote is not new, of course. Former President Eisenhower proposed similar legislation to Congress in 1954.

Fannin, who introduced similar legislation in the last Congress, stresses that his proposal recognizes that there are legitimate reasons why a pre-strike vote may adversely affect free collective bargaining. As he told the Senate:

"The bill provides for a secret ballot by the workers concerned only on continuing the strike and only after the right to strike has been exercised and the positions of the parties have tended to become stalemated."

Also on the Fannin proposal a petition for an election to determine whether a strike should continue could not be filed until after a strike has been in effect for 30 days.

Similarly, no more than one strike vote would be held within any 60-day period. The senator says the purpose of this is to insure that the union's ability to bargain effectively will continue after a vote favorable to a continuation of the strike.

Fannin sums up his bill this way:

"The bill provides workers caught in a protracted bargaining stalemate with a means of ending a strike which has gone beyond the point of economic return or, alternatively, with a means of expressing to management and to the public their determination to continue the strike, despite the economic costs."

The senator is aware, of course, of what these economic losses mean to the individual worker caught in a protracted walkout. More than 10,000 workers in his state of Arizona alone endured months of enforced idleness in a long copper strike last year. Thousands more copper workers in New Mexico, Montana, Nevada and Utah were similarly affected.

"I think it can be said with accuracy," Fannin says, "that almost any time a strike lasts more than 30 days the worker stands to lose more than he can gain."

The recent Ford strike, for example, will take the average automobile production worker at Ford many years to make up what he lost during 46 days of enforced idleness. In the 73-day strike of machinists' workers against the airlines in 1966 it is anybody's estimate how long it will take these people to make up what they lost.

Bureau of Labor Statistics recently released indicate that last year's rash of strikes — fed by wage demands to offset inflationary living costs and technological changes — made 1968 the worst year for working hours lost since 1959.

4,950 Strikes

BLS revealed that the total number of strikes last year, 4,950, was 7 per cent higher than in 1967 and the highest number in 15 years. The number of workers involved, however, was down to 2.6 million from 2.9 million in 1967. Thirty-three of the strikes involved more than 10,000 workers. The average employee involved was idled 10 days.

These figures make it clear that today's strikes are becoming more and more of a burden on the union man forced out on strike. It is less and less often a day or two on the picket line and a return to a fattened pay envelope. More and more, a strike involves weeks of unemployment and lost production. It means repossessed automobiles and lost profits, foreclosed mortgages and bankrupt businesses.

The Fannin bill is by no means an "antislavery" bill. It is simply offering a basic right to a man on strike who should have the freedom of saying he's had enough when he's had enough. It could end a lot of hardship and suffering brought on by strikes designed to help union workers.

Although not all have as yet filed their petitions, no less than six papers for Town Council seats have been taken out. Steve Smith was the first to let his intentions be known, and since then has been followed by Mike Clark, Gary Severson, Bert Daniels, Louis Fitzpatrick and Fred Greaves.

Mr. Greaves is currently chairman of the Council and is completing his third three-year term. His seat is one of three that becomes vacant as of Town Meeting day.

There may yet be more candidates, and it appears that there should be a spirited and interesting contest brewing.

We reported a couple of weeks back that Dr. John Madigan was not seeking a new term on the Council, but would make a bid for a seat on the Water Company Board of Directors. Our information was wrong. Dr. Madigan is seeking election to the board of trustees of Cary Library.

Efforts are continuing on several fronts to have a publicity information building erected in Houlton at the New Brunswick border. A similar building is planned, so we understand, for the Canadian side, to be built by the New Brunswick government.

Proponents of the publicity bureau for Maine are suggesting that a facility be erected, one that would straddle the border and serve both the State of Maine and the Province of New Brunswick. It has met with favorable response from our Canadian neighbors, and seems a definite possibility.

The tremendous increase in traffic that has been generated by Interstate 95 at Houlton, and by the Trans Canada at Woodstock, has been brought into focus the need for adequate information facilities at the border.

The Interstate has been opened into Houlton now for 15 months and as yet very little has been done by the Town to take advantage of our favorable position.

Island Falls came through beautifully in the Eastern Maine Class S tournament at Bangor, defeating Mattawamkeag for the title. The team was greeted royally when they returned home, with a big celebration at the gym.

The boys now have a two-week lay off until they play Strong High on March 8 at Bangor for the State title.

Houlton was not as fortunate in the double L tourney. They were defeated by a good Lawrence High team in the opening round.

The most exciting team in the large school tournament was Cony High of Augusta, and they were right out of this world when they scored 121 points against Presque Isle.

Our only question is how come Cony, which plays an all Western Maine schedule, wound up in the Eastern Maine tournament. It seems a bit ridiculous.

Nixon Stubs Toe

By Bert Mills

Washington, D.C. —

Consumer protection was an issue that troubled President Nixon during his campaign, and now he has stubbed his toe in his first effort to revamp the consumer setup he inherited.

The Democrats invented the idea of making political capital out of having a central office to receive complaints from consumers. President Lyndon B. Johnson made a bid for the housewife vote soon after he took office five years ago by appointing a Special Assistant to the President for Consumer Affairs.

The job went to Mrs. Esther Peterson, then the highest-ranking woman in government as Assistant Secretary of Labor. She devoted only part-time to her role as champion of consumers, continuing to hold her post at the Labor Department. Eventually, LBJ soured on Mrs. Peterson and brought in Miss Betty Furness as a replacement who would add glamour to the consumer operation.

Miss Furness devoted full time to the consumer post. She was an effective advocate of consumer legislation on Capitol Hill, and by the time the Johnson Administration ended it could claim credit for enacting more than 20 consumer protection laws. Examples included truth-in-packaging, truth-in-lending, and meat inspection.

Political Asset

Unquestionably, Miss Furness was a political asset to the Democratic party. Probably she would have continued her job if Hubert Humphrey had been elected President. With Nixon elected, she departed last January 20.

During the campaign, Nixon avoided going out on any limb on the consumer issue. He talked in generalities, such as "The consumer must be protected, but he must also be trained and encouraged to protect himself." He also spoke of the need for "a thoroughly informed, self-reliant consumer."

But Nixon did not commit himself to have a consumer aide on his staff nor to continue the office which Miss Furness had built up to a staff of 30 and an annual budget of $420,000. There were rumors the consumer office would be downgraded, and several staff members left to take other jobs.

When Nixon moved, it was in the direction of a study. He appointed a home economist with a solid background in the testing of consumer products to make a 90-day survey of all government activities in behalf of the consumer. His choice was Miss Willie Mae Rogers, director of the Good Housekeeping Institute, whose Seal of Approval on products is familiar to most shoppers.

Because Miss Rogers was to serve only temporarily, she was asked not to give up her magazine job. She was to receive expenses only for her government service, as do many other people loaned to the government for temporary work. The White House could see no conflict-of-interest because Miss Rogers' role was to examine, evaluate and recommend.

Rough Time

However, White House reporters gave Miss Rogers a rough time when she was introduced at a press conference. They persisted in suggesting that her private role would interfere with her public performance. Miss Rogers was obviously surprised and shaken by the grilling she received.

Then the flak began to fall on Capitol Hill, and not only from Democrats. It was revealed that a House subcommittee had been secretly investigating Good Housekeeping Institute, before it was known that its Director was to receive an appointment from the President.

The White House tried to rescue the situation by arranging for Miss Rogers to take a leave of absence from the magazine, and give up her salary. By this time Miss Rogers had had it. She said "no" withdrew from the post she had received only four days earlier.

That leaves President Nixon back where he started. Now he is expected to forget about the study and simply name a successor to Miss Furness. The champions of consumerism are delighted with this turn of events.

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Bible Lesson - Sermon to be heard at Christian Science churches this Sunday. The Golden Text is from Ephesians: "Ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God; and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone."

At First Church of Christ, Scientist, 2 High street, the service will begin at 10:45 a.m.

Correlated passages from the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, will include the following: "Christianity as Jesus taught it was not a creed, nor a system of ceremonies, nor a special gift from a ritualistic Jehovah; but it was the demonstration of divine Love casting out error and healing the sick, not merely in the name of Christ, or Truth, but in demonstration of Truth, as must be the case in the cycles of divine light."

An intensive three-day course will be held at Milo Town Hall, emphasizing the Bible theme, "Make Wise Use of the Remaining Time."

Mr. Roberts told the congregation, "The time remaining before God destroys everything in opposition to his Kingdom is rapidly running out. Special Message By Curtis Stresses Conservation Laws

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis, in a Special Message to the 104th Legislature on Conservation and Economic Development, has urged passage of a comprehensive package of conservation laws, designed to implement the state's recently adopted policy of "Development through Conservation."

Gov. Curtis endorsed legislation covering mining operations, offshore oil exploration and development, sand and gravel extraction, air and water pollution control, billboard control, land use control, including wildlands and coastal zoning, solid waste control and more state park development, all affecting the environmental resources of the state.

Gov. Curtis said "we recognize the principle that the proper exercise of controls, the proper use of land and the proper protection of our air and water are prerequisites to sound economic development."

"Certain resources that we have long taken for granted in America are coming into short supply," he went on to say. "Clean air, clean water, open space, recreation opportunities—these elements, in which Maine abounds, are becoming more valuable every day. Maine must, therefore, plan and pass intelligent legislation."

In the area of economic growth he called for creation of a State Housing Authority, a reorganization of the Department of Economic Development, a revision of state liquor laws to include "modest and reasonable" Sunday sales laws, creation of a Maine Public Power Authority and a continuation of the study on the needs for a Department of Transportation. "Development without conservation is unthinkable."

PROMOTED—Sergeant First Class Donald E. Mason, Army Recruiter for this area, was recently promoted to his present grade. Sgt. Mason, 29, who served two terms of duty in Japan, has averaged a promotion every 1.7 years of his 12-year career. He tells prospects that promotion is rapid in the Army and now he has his seventh promotion to back up his claim. Sgt. Mason, his wife Noriko and son Douglas, make their home in Presque Isle.

and illusory" Gov. Curtis said. "We would destroy resources as rapidly as we regained them. Only economic development through conservation will meet the demands our people have for future jobs and services.... and a share of the prosperous life of the nation."

The message specifically called for laws to control mining activities that would be administered by the Maine Mining Bureau and include a rehabilitation program that would require mining companies to post up to a $1500 per acre bond for rehabilitation, an oil and gas control act that would regulate exploratory development, drilling, production, transportation and refining of petroleum products.

He also urged the creation of a surficial materials conservation act that would control the open pit mining of sand, gravel and other materials and would have in it among other things a performance bond clause on rehabilitation of the land.

In the area of water and air pollution, he urged adoption of the $50 million bond program that he said would start pollution projects now instead of when federal funds become available for this work and pointed out that the interest charges on the bonds would be no more than the increased costs if we waited a few more years.

Following a recommendation of his Committee on Pollution Abatement, the Governor urged the reduction in size of the Water and Air Environmental Improvement Commission from 11 members to 8 members and the doubling of the staff, including the hiring of an executive director.

The Governor pointed out that the cleanup cost of municipal pollution in Maine is about $170 million. The total cleanup, including industrial pollution, is estimated to cost between $250 and $320 million. Costs have been shared between the State, the Federal Government and the localities. Gov. Curtis complained, however, of the totally inadequate amount of federal funds available—only $1.8 million per year.

In discussing land use controls, Gov. Curtis urged the creation of a Wildlands Use Regulation Commission to set standards for the use of the Millions of acres of wildlands in Maine and he also asked the lawmakers to extend the wetlands control laws to include inland waters.

He also urged that lot sizes be set at a minimum of 20,000 square feet where there are no sewers or water supply available, or 15,000 square feet if there is but one available.

He urged that all land within 500 feet of water, whether lakes or rivers or seacoast, be zoned by the communities they are in.

Billboards are also mentioned in his message and he asks that all of those not meeting the requirements of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads be removed and that a Scenic Highway Board be established to develop existing highways in Maine along lines prescribed by the National Highway Beautification Act.

The Health and Welfare Department would regulate dumping grounds and solid wastes under another law he recommends.

The Governor urged that state park development continue with a $1.7 million capital improvement program that would generate $1.3 million more in federal funds and make it possible to continue the development of parks at Poland Spring, Damariscotta Lake, Ferry Beach in Saco, Popham Beach and the Peaks—Kenney Park.

The Governor has asked for the establishment of a State Housing Authority that he says could sponsor housing projects for the low income families and the elderly, purchase or partially guarantee home mortgages and coordinate research on a variety of housing projects.

He also suggested that state guarantees to builders be available for tract development, a move that would require a constitutional amendment. Another change in the Constitution he recommends is that the Maine Industrial Building Authority be combined with the Maine Recreation Authority and that the new entity be allowed to provide loan guarantees to service industries.

Recognizing the need for new revenue, the Governor pointed out the proposed legislation he favors that calls for wine sales in grocery stores, elimination of the licensee's discount and an increase in the license fees that would produce approximately $1.2 million.

He also pointed out that the agency stores to be located in communities that have approved the sale of liquor, but where the state cannot afford to establish a new outlet, could be allowed in existing privately owned stores.

In the field of electric power, the Governor urged the establishment of a Maine Public Power Authority to study and ultimately build appropriate projects to help Maine and the rest of New England.

In the area of transportation the Governor suggested that the Maine Aeronautics Commission be granted authority to license third-level carriers, provide assistance to them and lay the groundwork for the expansion of the air lanes of Maine. He also suggested that the New Bangor International Airport be allowed to sell tax free jet fuel as an inducement to bring more trans-Atlantic flights to this air field.

An airport improvement and expansion program that would cost $2.2 million in state monies and generate $3.8 million in federal matching funds was also suggested. It would cover construction projects in Bangor, Portland, Auburn, Livermore Falls and Madawaska.

A Look At Congress With William D. Hathaway Congressman, Second Maine District

Because it reaches into most American homes, just about everyone has a firm opinion about the draft.

During his campaign for election, President Nixon promised to try to bring about an all-volunteer Army. This proposal was undoubtedly well received by the many people who favor abolition of the draft. Presumably, President Nixon at some time during the next four years will attempt to carry out his promise. He is not likely to succeed.

Success will elude him unless the majority of citizens are prepared to pay substantially more to maintain the armed services.

Professional soldiers would be in a position to demand such benefits as an eight-hour day, a five-day week, more luxurious housing, higher salaries, paid vacations, improved pension plans, and other fringe benefits that would prove costly.

The idea of a volunteer Army may be attractive, but does not appear feasible. Nor would it likely turn out to be best in terms of the national interest. For most young men, service in the armed forces is an unattractive and unpopular obligation. A professional Army, it seems to me, would tend to attract recruits heavily from the ranks of the least educated and more underprivileged people. This would have obvious and undesirable consequences and at the same time unfairly place the burden for the defense of the nation upon the minority groups who have protested this unfair treatment.

I continue to favor retention of the draft with changes which will eliminate arbitrary and discriminating treatment.

I continue to favor the proposal which Senator Edward M. Kennedy and I have advanced for a lottery method of selection.

This plan would provide all young men at age 18 with an equal opportunity for service regardless of their race, economic status or I.Q. It would remove the inequities and anxieties which have marked the present system.

The lottery method makes sense and, more importantly, it makes for fairness to everyone.
